

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to substituted quinoxalines which have antiviral and immunomodulatory activity. The compounds of the invention are useful for treating infectious diseases, particularly viral diseases.